There are meanings to be found in traditions — imperfect and noncontemporary as they may be. These traditions go beyond the hundred years of PC's existence to the medieval pageantry of convocation, the eighteenth century formal garden, the Greco-Roman architecture, and the pre-Christian rites of invocation to the divine before a sports event.

Our traditions work on us in almost subconscious ways to remind us of our roots in the past and our pace toward the future. They provide a consistent flow of expected events which give some regularity and security in this world of a hundred indecisions. Traditions give us a timeless perspective on this very transient period in our lives.

The events are the same,
and the rituals change only imperceptibly. The new faces instill the standard ceremonies
with vitality each year,
but the motions are the same.

Each individual personality contributes a special element to make each event a moment filled with unrepeatable emotion. The spirit of winning and the fulfillment found in successful competition remains an important element in college life, though new forms have been added.

We find meaning in everyday rituals that are redundant, yet satisfying in their repetition. Each day with its routine continues the petty pace toward our destiny.

Meanings can be found not only in traditions, but also in relationships. It is the quality of relationships we achieve that enriches our lives now and in the future.

The people change, but the oaks are still here. The Georgian architecture, the high standards, the dedication to the liberal arts, the Christian emphasis, the pride — all of these will remain with us through our next hundred years.

The tension of the game is reflected in Elliott Poss' face.

Parents' Day takes its toll as Susan Ritter, Mimi Trippe, Deborah Dobbins and Janet Bearden await another performance.

The question is: Was this picture taken during open dorms or not? Kelly Barrett and Corky Strickland are taking the fifth.

An unexpected firedrill finds Bailey in all sorts of clothes and moods.

Greg Breter doesn't seem to be doing a very good job of convincing his conscience that he didn't do it. (Perhaps he did!)

DEDICATION DR. CARL ARNOLD

"Quote . . . Unquote" . . . "That sort of proposition" . . .
"Do you see where I'm coming from?" . . . commercials for U.S. News and World Report . . . "I don't own stock in the Wall Street Journal" . . . white, short sleeved, button down shirts . . . keeping count of his "O. K.'s" . . . TIN-STAFL . . . "I'm no artist" . . . gumballs!

A friendly smile and a no-nonsense attitude about learning, a teasing manner and a 22 page exam, an open office door and concern for students all endear this man to us.
For all these things and many more, the senior class dedicates the 1980 PaC SaC to Dr. Carl Jefferson Arnold.

The 1979 crop of Bailey girls strut their stuff during freshmen orientation.

"Howdy Pardner." Laurette Jackson goes west to Oklahoma with other loyal Blue Hose fans.

PC's Christmas candlelight service provides a few quiet moments before exam cram sessions begin.

Connie Miller and Lisa Davis display the PaC SaC's organizational techniques during deadline chaos.

ORIENTATION

FOB members prepare to conduct the freshman men's "chorale" at 6:30 in the morning!

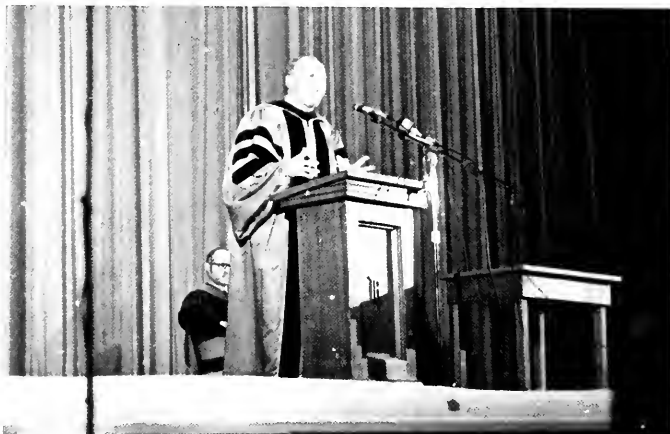

Col. Andrews persuades Freshmen to get involved in ROTC's field artillery.

Freshman Orientation ... beginning a new phase of life ... attending meetings ... learning school policies ... field day! ... water fights ... FOB hunt ... toothpicks and lifesavers ... getting to know each other ... dancing at the freshman mixer ... attending the reception at the President's home ... visiting the fraternities ... getting up at 6:00 a.m. ... singing across the Plaza ... wearing sandwich signs ... being nervous as upperclassmen arrive ... making new and lasting friendships ... beginning to adjust to college life ... worrying about the first exams ... standing in eternal lines ... dreading registration ... getting ready to face a year at Presbyterian College.

Members use their artistic abilities to welcome the freshmen.

Transfer Orientation ... discovering life at a new school ... attending meetings concerning school policies and academics ... having gone through freshman orientation elsewhere, not required to participate in games and rituals bestowed upon PC freshmen ... having the annual transfer orientation picnic at Dean Nixon's rained out ... adjusting to a new and different school after already having adjusted to one ... differences to confront ... help and advice from Transfer Orientation Board members ... anticipation of new people and new surroundings ... becoming well-rounded PC students.

Dr. Orr, delivering his speech at orientation, showed a great desire to help PC grow through the next hundred years.

Freshmen girls show their ingenuity at field day!

Frustration, nervousness, and boredom are seen on the faces of tired freshmen as "Doc" administers one more test.

Mark Frazier and Laura Helton find out that lifesavers are indeed a part of living!

I-2-3 — swing! Norman Schellenger and Tim Riddle.

What good form. Andy!

Reach for that ball, Billy Higgins!

Get ready, Billy, here it comes!

My, what a small court — and who took the net?

THE BEST RACKET IN TOWN

PC Women's tennis ... a young team ... a new coach, Bobby McKee, former men's tennis standout ... strong, competitive players ... lots of drive and depth ... lack of experience? ... made up for by team spirit and the will to win.

Front Row: Claire Pearson, Lynn Barton, Melanie Crelia. Back Row: Tracy Bridges, Kelly Shackelford, Laura Fowler, Mary Herman.

A samurai serve.

That stupid ball always stops in mid-air.

That's four times I've aced you with my underhand serve.

Thought you could trick me with a lob, didn't you?

I'm so mad I could burst!

Ain't I graceful?

HARD WORKING ATHLETES

Track team ... high point man — Mike Owens ... "Rusty, you can break that high jump record!" ... shot put ... discus ... "Coach Poss can't drive" ... mistaking Reno for head coach ... Powderpuff football often becomes a contact sport.

Beth Messenger works toward the Olympic goal!

Concentrate on that return, Hal.

Will he make it?

Block that shot!

Deb Smead ponders whether to shoot the 30-footer or dump the ball inside.

Forget it, Harold; there's no way you can get that ball.

Jump high, ladies, jump high!

That board looks awfully high.

"O.K. — this is it!" Nancy Williams.

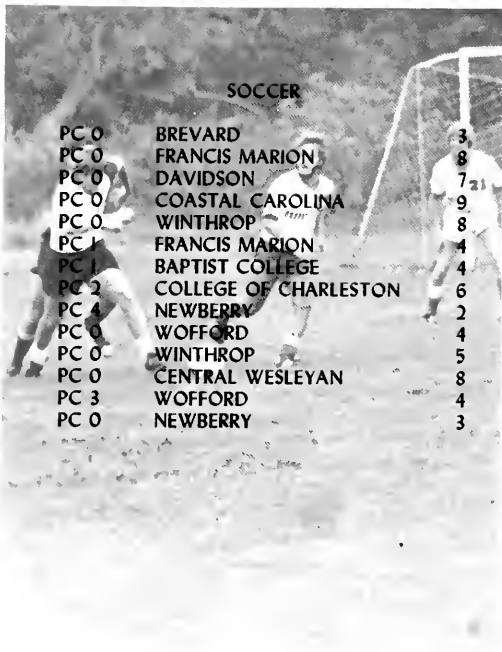

Harvey's Angels listen intently to their knowledgeable coach, Mark Padgett.

William Price ... nicknamed "Ike" and he has a twin brother named Mike ... hates squash ... he is trying to conserve energy in every way possible, especially at home.

Kim Randall ... '79 PC graduate ... has a hard time taking standardized tests ... "You're the teacher and you're supposed to know the answer" ... washes clothes only once a week to help the energy crisis ... Dr. James once told her, "don't let things get to you" ... doesn't like pizza.

George Pruden ... has taught at PC on and off since 1971 ... has a doctorate in International Studies ... helped to cover the Wake Forest chapel with toilet paper for the next day's speaker (a Mr. Howard Butt) ... believes PC students take their reading assignments too casually ... can't stand beef tongue.

Wayne Renwick ... attended PC ... majored in Social studies and history ... nickname was "Wick" ... says that PC students have "class."

Dale Rains ... a member of Alpha Psi Omega ... likes the enthusiasm of students ... "Can't is an obscene word!" ... dislikes students' blowing bubbles in class ... Once received this advice, "Never be afraid to make a fool of yourself" ... takes 30 minutes to grade a test.

Homer Rickabaugh ... has been in Korea since 1957 ... ran cross-country in college ... majored in philosophy ... worked in Korea as a campus minister in government and private universities ... is a photography buff.

George Ramsey ... started out in engineering and then switched to history ... dislikes oysters, especially raw ... was once invited to discuss Mesopotamian Archeology with the Crown Prince of Japan ... favorite TV program is MASH ... to save energy, he turns out the lights in the faculty lounge every time he leaves.

Norman Scarborough ... was going to major in industrial management ... "Do ya understand?" ... has a water restrictor in his shower to help conserve energy ... tripe makes him sick.

Stephen Schaeffer ...
 "practiced practice!
 practice!" ... swims
 every day ... used to scare students away from the organ by blowing in the pipes and making spooky sounds ...
 received this advice, "I can only open the door, you have to walk through it" ... hates liver.

James Skinner ...
 played college football ...
 appreciates PC students'
 friendliness and politeness in class, but would like to see more dedication to academics ... awakened his campus by firing the cannon at 3:00 a.m. ... saves paper to recycle
 and uses no office lights
 ... "a wealth of specific detail."

Linda Smith ... attended PC ... was known as "Sudden Death Suddeth" at PC before her marriage ... likes
 students' involvement
 with volunteer services
 ... to aid the energy crisis, she is "thinking about buying a bicycle,
 and recycling aluminum cans ... doesn't like for students to chew tobacco.

Tom Stallworth ...
 Teaching is fun ...
 grading papers is a chore
 ... member of Pi Kappa Alpha at PC ... drives an economy car at 55 to save gas and lives ... loves sailing ... likes the personal relationship with students at PC ...
 studies didn't come easy.

Rachel Stewart ... made A's at Harvard and Radcliffe, but failed typing
 at grad school ... likes murder mysteries ...
 spent ten years as a professional cellist ...
 philosophy major ...
 happy faces adorn her
 tests ... likes chess,
 bridge, and backgammon
 ... saves energy by wrapping up in blankets
 and reading at night.

Ann Stidham ... hates
 raw oysters ...
 remembers crawling out
 of dorm windows since her college had no cards or open dorms ... she enjoys students, but is disappointed in that most underestimate themselves
 ... spends six to eight hours grading a set of tests ... was once told,
 "what you are to be you are now becoming."

James Stidham ...
 nicknamed "Mr.
 Metabolism" because he could eat anything and not gain an ounce ... was captain of his college's tennis team ... hates grading papers because it takes him hours ...
 thinks PC students are easy to be with ... once filled his college business
 manager's car to the brim with leaves.

Robert Strock ...
 played college football ...
 got a Masters in public school administration ...
 likes the character of PC
 students ... appreciates
 the students' intelligence and friendliness.

Foard Tarbert ...
 "Don'tcha see?" ... once
 a civil engineering major
 ... flunked English four times ... painted the tank at the Citadel ...
 beefs about the fact that PC students drive nicer cars than he does ... was once advised, "Don't go into teaching" ... cannot eat chitlins.

Waid Toy ... switched majors from chemistry to economics ... failed organic chemistry and German ... "Always
 forward" ... hates turnip greens and collards.

Richard Whiteside ... nicknamed "Whitey" ...
 used to have pale blond hair ... double majored in business administration and psychology ...
 despises liver ... says PC
 students are both bright and lazy.

Eugene Womble ...
 played basketball in college ... member of Phi Beta Kappa ... enjoys the friendliness of PC
 students ... dislikes
 bananas ... was once told: "Booklearning doesn't necessarily make a person wise."

Bill Yarborough ... changed majors four times
 ... "and now it's obvious that" ... likes the fact that PC students treat him as a person and not always a teacher ... still has a chair he stole from his college cafeteria because he was going to be charged for a meal
 twice ... dislikes olives
 and mustard.

Ethyl Zygoté ... played basketball in college (as the ball) ... was once caught impersonating a fungus in a Petri dish ...
 was advised to "quit while you're a head" ... can't eat English peas, it's cannibalistic ...
 graduated at the head of her class ... really got around in college.

Betsy Greene. — caught on the way to the laundry room

M-i-i-tchell smiles.

Anne reads the latest issue of the Clinton Dorm Enquirer.

Roy learns something new every day at P.C.

Fred Williams contemplates where to road trip this weekend — Spartanburg or Athens?

Fun and games in Dr. Presseau's Rec. class.

Charlie almost loses his balance.

Eight ball in the side pocket!

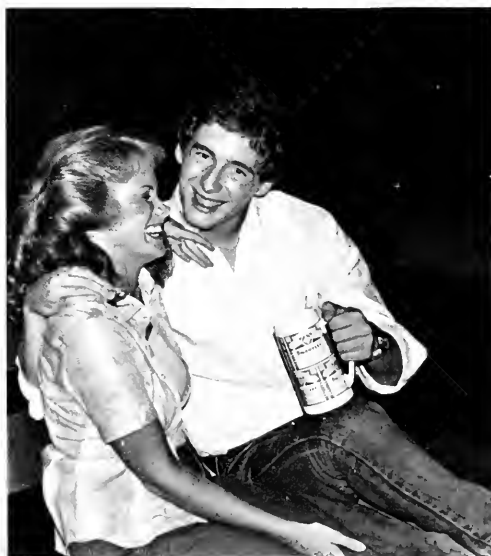

Ride on, Ted.

Laurie always works with a smile.

AH-CHOOOO!

What's so funny, Lang?

What do you say when you see a dead cat lying beside the road?

What a poor looking specimen!

Please, let me analyze you!

This sure beats studying.

Backpacking is a way to conserve energy ... a growing fad on the PC campus ... great exercise ... you can carry all your books ... many professors ride their bikes to class ... "My legs are tired." ... "My back hurts!" ... trying to get everything in and balanced ... getting tired of people asking you if you've been camping ... having your nose freeze in the winter! ... leaving home fifteen minutes early ... "I didn't realize it was all uphill." ... "Is conserving energy this important?"

There is nothing like brotherly love
... She says, "I wish that were me."
... a special closeness among students ... friends are forever.

Washing clothes ... what a pain ... "Where is Mom when you need her?" ... "Is this shirt for hot or cold water?" ... all-tempacheer ... Why didn't I buy no-iron shirts?" ... "Sunshine Cleaners will make a fortune from now on!" ... A good place to study ... "I had to wash. I'm out of clean underwear!" ... "Why doesn't heat come out of the dryers?" ... "I never have dimes when I need them." ... "Well, my shirt wasn't this small when I started." ... "My white pants are now red!" ... forget it ... "Maybe my girlfriend will do it for me next time!" ... "I've got to get it all in one washing — I've got only one quarter!"

STAFF

The 1980 PaC SaC staff would like to express its sincere thanks to the Campus Security Officers for constantly unlocking doors, keeping us awake, and allowing us to inhabit Douglas House after hours. We would also like to thank Mrs. Lehman for her proofreading and the registrar's office for help with the Senior directory. And finally, our thanks to everyone who showed up for pictures, identified people, or offered their moral support to our harried staff.

"What do I do now?"

Something is very wrong here — Star Baltzegar and Bob Belisle.

Danny Cohen is surprised at how much work goes into making a yearbook!

Right: All for Blue Hose stand up and holler! — Pedro. Far right: Whirling, twirling, dancing, swirling. — Tara Roddy.

"Now wait a minute — I know I threw a ball up here." — Mitch Poe.

Below: Penny Morgan, what are you selling now?

Sally Campbell, is your bucket full?

Say, "Cheese," Cruiser.

Welcome back, Candy and Jarrold.

Another good round for the PC rifle team.

Does Lisa Keller dream about a White Christmas ... or Greg Bolton?

Above: This strange attire is typical when PC's men prepare to have Pac SaC pictures made.
Right: Arnie Thomas forges his way ahead when the Theta Chis take on fourth floor Georgia's inexperienced freshmen.

Friendliness prevails as Roy Walker talks with a Saginaw Valley player after PC's victory.

Andy Rhodes finds "Riverboat" a good time for snaking.

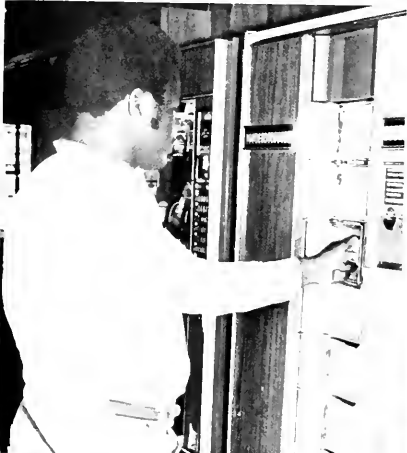

Kathy Hammond can't wait to call home as she is tapped for Cardinal Key.

Pam Satterfield auditions for "The Phantom of the Library."

The Vendomite strikes again! John Breazeale gets the midnight munchies.

Cathy Powell finishes a leisurely meal while Susan Jennings seems to have found something unusual in her coffee.

Dr. Chapman, you've changed.

Right: Virginia and Suzie, you know you can't sing as well sitting down.

"Gee, never had time for this when I was dean."

"Frank, I'm home!"

"I should have danced all night."

"You're not really studying, are you, Catherine?"

"Tuck your shirt in, Norman."

In the midst of all the chaos and confusion in the office, somehow everything falls into place and the book is complete. The 1980 PaC SaC is the cumulative product of a very talented staff whose dedication and occasional insanity helped us all to keep going until the end.

Thanks to everyone who helped in any way, and special thanks to Norman, who never complained throughout it all; Buff and Dee, who did a lot of everything; Danny, who kept me sane; Alan, my paragon of organization; Alison, Johnny, Connie, Todd, Margaret, and Barbara, for their devoted labor and stupid jokes; Mrs. Lehman, for her eagle-eye proof-reading; and Frank, for his patience and encouragement.

This is not my book, but my staff's book — a mutual effort which we hope shows that Presbyterian College is and what it can become during The Second Hundred Years.
